-looking for a keynote speaker contemporary and pushes the edges in using art in their practices

-lu-luen could you send us the draft of this email

-Meredith--thinking about using the art outside of response art think about and deal with the heavy things we hear about and do with our clients and relationships we have with our clients view clients as artist and push them to define what a artist is. Art therapist and also an artist also how would i talk to them artist to artist and art therapist and hold that space. Speak and talk about their own personal work outside of response art or both displaying side by side and client artwork. Relationships with clients as artist how are you displaying work how do you want people to see your work is this something for you or can be viewed by the public and the dual relationship we have as artist and art therapist

- lu-luen "Exploring the use of art and contemporary therapy practices" --to draw social workers or traditional therapies--social workers

- IJ moves to motion
- all in agreement
- what are we willing to pay--
- IJ I will bring it back so we can discuss

Email info from Lynn:

-The Art Therapy Licensure:

I think there are two things easily get mixed together. One is title protection, the other is art therapist specific licensure. I would like to see a survey send out to our members to evaluate what they want. Lynne- Can you draft something?

- and C, I called IMHCA today.

What we discussed in the board meeting is wrong. Our membership due for IMHCA is $750 per year (due on July 1st). I think $3000 and $750 is a huge difference. We may want to reconsider to discuss about our membership with IMCHA in the next board meeting. Also, they meet online every month. I would like to have Lynne be the IATA point person to attend these meetings with IMHCA if we continued. IMCHA is not just about CEUS. It is about advocating art therapy in Springfield along with other LCPC clinicians.
